A HORRIBLE CRIME

Or Which George Bullock is Charge

A brute in human form was arraigned be-ore 'Squire Philips Saturday evening, and if all the stories told about him be true, he will in all probability have a hard time of it before he escapes from the clutches of the law.

Early in the afternoon, Mrs. Ellen Bullock, an aged lady of about sixty years, came to the 'Squire's office from her home in Fulton, and with tears of shame and sorrow in her eyes, made information against Geo. W. alias 'Cam' Bullock, her son, charging him with two of the most infamous, outrageous and horrible crimes a person could be guilty of the particulars of this bestial act are not fit for publication; suffice it to say that the sufferers are his two daughters, Hattie and Lizzie, aged nine and seven years.

A warrant was quickly made out and placed in the hands of Constables Lauchlin and Smith, who started immediately. Bullock lives in a small house immediately at the foot of the big hill, and is a tall, roughlooking man, about thirty-five or forty years old, and does not appear to be overburdened with common sense; in fact, judging from his action and appearance, one

Before leaving Bullock's house the children were questioned and the story told by their grandmother found to be true. Bullock, in 5 default of $1,000 ball, was sent to jail until 10 o'clock this morning.

It has since been learned that he was very cruel to his wife and on last Friday beat her until the blood ran out of her éars—she still bears the marks. She bore all of this and made no complaint, but learning what he has done to his children has determined to push him as far as possible. He has not properly taken care of his family and they are in very destitute circumstances. Punishment of such a wrotch as he seems to be can hardly be made too strong.

BOLD BURGLARS.

A Safe Blown Open and a Boarding House Cone Through, Yesterday morning two bold and daring obberies were committed in this neighbor robberies were committed in this neighborhood.

The first took place between the hours of 3 and 4 o'clock in Fulton, the little suburb northeast of the city. The door of the paper mill was pried open in a manner that indicates that professionals must have had something to do with the suffair. Saturday was payday at the mill and the burglars evidently looked for a big haul. After gaining an entrance a hole was drilled in the door of the safe and powder blown in and afterwards ignited by means of a fuse. The thieves were not sharp. They should have tried to open the safe, as the doer was unlocked. There was only $7.50 in the safe and a few postage stamps. No traces were left behind by which to gain a clue as to who the persons were.

IN THE CITY.

About $30 o'clock, it is supposed, some person or persons entered the boarding house of Mrs. Williams, at No. 138 Sixteenth street, and deliberately went through the rooms, of all those in the house, taking their clothes and carrying them to the diding room where they proceeded to leisurely examine the pockets. In the pocket of Mrs. Williams' dress a bunch of keys was found with which a bureau drawer was opened and $25 taken. One or two pair of pants are also missing, $7 from one vest pocket, a watch, two chains, some shirts and other articles of clothing. The last boarder to come in arrived about $2.4 m, and all was then quiet.

The loss was not discovered until Mrs. Williams awakened, about $5 o'clock. plosed as a typo on the Evening Standard, of this city.

Indeed, with one whose facial expression is less animated and speaking, the reverse would be true, but Mile Rhea's acting was the perfection of art—an exact counterpart of nature.

Yet with all ther merit, the evenness of her acting, the grace of her bearing, the elegance of her custumes and the attractiveness of her face and form, Mile Rhea's hold on her hearers is unexplained. Lovers of fun should secure reserved seats at Wilson & Baumers's for to-night's performance at the Opera House if they have not already done so. Barry & Fay's Comedy Company is highly spoken of everywhere. The Brooklyn Review, speaking of a performance at the Grand Opera House, says: "The new house, vast as it is, was unable to accommodate the immense crowds link desired admission, and turned away at least a thousand spersons. Within, at least two thousand spersons. Within, at least we thousand spersons of the programme provided by the Barry & Fay Company. The entire performance was a thorough success—Barry & Fay pro-eminently. fitteen minutes before eleven o'clock the Brilliant Glass Works, at Brilliant, (formerly Lagrange) were discovered to be 'on fire. The flames spread throughout the building with such fearful rapidity that the employes had but barely time to get out. As to the origin of the fire, upon inquiry made of those connected with the establishment, we find that it is not certain whether the fire originated in the packing room on the second floor, or in the engraving room on the third floor. The hands had been at work in the packing room up till nine o'clock. The general supposition is that the fire originated from a stove in the engravers' room. From whatever fifteen minutes before eleven o'clock the Brilliant Glass Works, at Brilliant, (forsupposition is that the fire originated from a stove in the engravers' room. From whatever source, what was a first-class establishment for the manufacture of glass ware is now in ruins. The furnace is uninjured, The brick floor surrounding it saved the coal bins and teazer room, thus enabling them to keep up the fire in the furnace until such time as the glass can be removed from the pots. The engine and boiler are but little damaged. The heaviest loss is in lathes, moulds and patterns.
